It's a passion, not just a business:

- Long time friends Sammie & Koby, wanted options to purchase products that were not harmful for their families or the environment
 - They started this business acknowledging that we are all imperfect at zero waste, but were motivated to help like minded consumers join the movement
- They love educating customers who are new into the green initiative about clean and sustainable products.

1. What motivated you to create this model?

"We were increasingly dismayed at the amount of single use plastics in our home, so we resolved to integrate clean and sustainable products with the model of a bulk refillery station where customers would be encouraged to bring existing containers and we would refill them at bulk pricing."

2. What has been the response here in Burlington? Are customers interested in the concept?

"We are delighted to find that there is a strong and growing community of like-minded people in our region. We are also grateful for the support we have received from other eco-green businesses in the area. We have found "our people" and we are overwhelmed by your support."
